FIFTY MORE DILLON TALESMEN CALLED

Fifty more talesmen were being summoned to appear in district court at 10 o'clock Friday morning for empaneling of the jury to hear the "scandal" trial of Dr Harvey H Dillon, ousted Louisiana Training institute superintendent accused of embezzlement of institute properties With only eight jurors chosen and the original venire list of 30 exhausted when court adjourned Wednesday afternoon until Friday, it was indicated that the trial might not get started until afternoon.

The eight jurors chosen after a slow and wordy examination were C L Couch, Charles Bigger, George H. Steele, R. H. Vernon, John S. Brady, W. A. Kirkpatrick, Emmett Lee and Emmett Arrant.

Selection of the jury has been in progress since Tuesday afternoon, after defense motions to quash the indictment and to obtain a continuance of the case had been overruled by Judge J. T. Shell. No jurors were accepted Tuesday, however.

THANKSGIVING . . . . . By Herblock

5 CANDIDATES HALT, OBSERVE THANKSGIVING

Some Of Them Make Good Promises In Speeches Wednesday

NEW ORLEANS Nov 23—(AP)—Louisiana's five gubernatorial candidates slackened their campaigns of charges and countercharges today in observance of Thanksgiving

Some of them were busy yesterday, however

Sam Jones spoke over radio during the day in New Orleans and at night held an informal meeting with other "Joneses." There are about four other candidates in this race who are trying to keep up with the Joneses, he said

James H Morrison, speaking over radio in New Orleans, said the people were flocking to him because they "don't want a change from one clique of professional politicians to another clique"

James A Noe said at Cameron it was "impossible to envision" the prosperity that would come to Louisiana with "removal of the hand of politics from business"

"My friends" Morrison said, "these professional politicians, Long, Jones and Noe thought they could fool the people of Louisiana, but they overlooked the fact that the people of this state have seen and had enough of professional politicians

"The people of the state of Louisiana want a complete change. They want honesty and decency restored to the public life of our beloved state. The people of Louisiana don't want a change from one clique of professional politicians to another clique

"The people of this state want the next governor to be a man who will not compromise, trade or deal with any of these high-binders, parasites and professional politicians. And that,

Thanksgiving Is Observed In Twin Cities Thursday

Union Service Held In West Monroe; Rev. Watson Delivers Sermon

The union Thanksgiving service for the Twin City churches was held in the First Methodist church in West Monroe, Thursday at 10 a.m. and was largely attended Various pastors of churches in Monroe and West Monroe officiated

The music was by massed choirs of both cities.

The sermon was preached by Rev. R. T. Watson, pastor of the Monroe First Christian church. He took for his text Psalm 92 1: "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord. It is a joy to give thanks to the Eternal"

He said in part: "There is no more beautiful grace than thanksgiving or gratitude. There is no baser sin than ingratitude. We are so lacking today in the grace of gratitude that we argue about the day of the year we should express our thanks! The truth of the matter is that we want to juggle the day around to suit our business convenience, to make the most profit in dollars and cents. We're more concerned about getting than we are about being grateful for what we have already received. We use the words 'give me' far more than the words 'thank you.' We are too filled with grabbing and grasping and too little given to recognition and thankfulness for what we already possess. How can we observe Thanksgiving today"

"First—By giving verbal and open thanks to God for His many blessings. We teach our children that common decency and politeness should prompt to say 'thank you,' as occasion requires. Should we not in the name of common decency be as polite to God" Every prayer should begin

BELIEVE MINES FLOAT THICKLY IN NORTH SEA

Germans Apparently Trying To Make It No-Man's-Area

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A navy announcement that 39 drifting mines have been sighted in the North sea in the last two days deepened the convictions of some maritime experts today that they had been set adrift to make British waters a no-man's-area for all shipping.

Stormy weather often has wrested mines from their moorings, but seldom in such clusters as indicated by the incomplete reports broadcast by the navy's hydrographic office. Most of the reports came from the U. S. S. Trenton.

Treaties prescribe automatic devices to assure that mines accidently set adrift will be rendered harmless within an hour, but those afloat in the North sea have accounted for most of the 16 ships sunk or damaged in the last five days.

The latest development in the European sea warfare suggested these tentative conclusions to qualified experts:

1. The recent heavy shipping losses are due to the numbers of the mines and their free drift rather than to the perfection of revolutionary new undersea weapons.

2. Virtually all the mines have been laid by submarines built for the purpose.

3. Setting them adrift has raised difficulties calculated to tax British and French means of keeping open vital commerce lanes.

4. The allied blockade and the German fight to create a counter blockade has not differed basically from the 1914-18 pattern.

In the World war Germany laid 43,636 mines, by official count. Ninety per cent were put out by mine-laying submarines, a special type that originated from the earlier struggle.

On the first day of the 1914-18 war, a German ship placed the first of the deadly submarine weapons, each bearing about 300 pounds of TNT or similar explosive, in the open sea, rather than near a coast as prescribed by The Hague 1907 convention.

To allied protests, Germany replied that the treaty was not binding as Russia had not formally ratified it.

EMPLOYMENT QUOTA BOOST ANNOUNCED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Regional Director Lawrence Westbrook of the WPA announced an increase of 23,000 in the employment quota for the states of Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The increase by states: Louisiana, 3,200; Texas, 10,000; Oklahoma, 3,000; Mississippi, 3,400; Arkansas, 3,400.

"This," said Colonel Westbrook, "is consistent with the national policy of increasing employment quotas during the winter months when need is greatest."

Even Europeans May Find Some Reason For Thanks

By DeWitt MacKenzie

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

This being one of the two Thanksgiving days for which we have to be grateful, it seems to be an appropriate time to take a look at Europe to see what, if anything, folk over there have salvaged out of the wreckage to be thankful for.

Really it's surprising how much good one can discover if he sets out to look for it seriously—and optimistically. "Good," I suppose, is a relative term which has to be measured against its surroundings Thus while we here in America are thankful we are out of the war, our friends across the big pond are even more happy because the war they are in is no worse.

Now take British Prime Minister Chamberlain, for instance. I find he is cheerful because his gout is better and he can get into the house of commons again. That's the kind of man he is, anyway, always contented with simple pleasures.

More seriously, he undoubtedly is thankful because on the whole the war-fates have been kind to the allies—at least up to the present scourge of German sea-mines in shipping lanes. He returns thanks, too, because thus far Germany hasn't unleashed its great fleet of airships in massed raids against England. That is one of Britain's dreads—the "blood bath" which the Nazis have been threatening.

Mussolini; He's undoubtedly pleased as punch because Herr Hitler hasn't forced a show-down on the stability of the Berlin-Rome axis, by demanding military aid. Il Duce presumably is glad he hasn't had to announce that neither he nor his people desire, or intend, to go to war for Germany if it can be avoided. And one assumes that he must be further delighted because he appears to be slipping gradually out of his Nazi association

Hitler: Perhaps his greatest cause for thanks is that he has on hand sufficient foodstuffs and war supplies to stand off strangulation by the British blockade for a while. Nazidom says it can withstand the siege indefinitely, but neutral experts differ. Anyway, it's Germany's greatest danger.

French Premier Daladier: He can be glad that this war hasn't produced the invasion and devastation of French territory which the world conflict saw. He must be thankful, too,

FRITZ KUHN'S 'GOLDEN ANGEL' MAY TESTIFY

Bund Leader Finds Out She's Not 'Very Fine Lady'

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The proceedings in Fritz Kuhn's larceny trial were pointed sharply today toward the witness stand appearance of Mrs. Florence Camp, one time "golden angel" of the bundfuehrer's transcontinental correspondence, but now considerably fallen from his grace.

"I thought Mrs. Camp was a very fine lady, but I found out she isn't," Kuhn remorsefully admitted yesterday, after the prosecution had read into the records three of Kuhn's letters to her studded with protestations of undying love.

The renunciation of the blonde divorcee capped a double recantation by the redfaced bundfuehrer; an admission that he had lied to Mrs. Camp in 1938 by telling her he had divorced his wife in 1934 (he's still married), and an admission that he lied when he testified, yesterday morning, that he never had told Mrs. Camp he was divorced.

The state has announced Mrs. Camp will be called, as a rebuttal witness against Kuhn, who is accused of stealing money from his German-American bund.

The appearance of the letters obviously was the cause of Kuhn's turn against the woman he said he loved "with my whole soul and body." When Assistant District Attorney Herman McCarthy asked when Kuhn found out Mrs. Camp isn't a "very fine lady," the bund leader replied: "I found out right now."

He had lied he said, to shield Mrs. Camp, as well as himself.

Through most of the day's session, he had squirmed and perspired under cross-examination but stuck wearily to the contention that his relationship

A. F. L. ASKS MURPHY TO DEFINE POSITION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor, angered by government prosecution of labor unions under the anti-trust laws, has asked Attorney General Murphy for a "frank statement" of policy.

President William Green of the A. F. L. made the demand on Murphy yesterday in a letter replying to the announcement of Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, that anti-trust prosecutions would be instituted against any labor union engaging in "unreasonable restraints."

Green said that if Arnold's statement was the policy of the justice department, it was "a grave perversion of the law." He argued that the Sherman anti-trust act was amended by the Clayton act to "completely exempt" labor unions from anti-trust prosecutions.

Arnold said Sunday in a letter to the Indianapolis Central Labor union that union practices may become illegal where they have no reasonable connection with such "legitimate objectives" as wages, hours, safety, health, undue speeding up, or the right of collective bargaining.

Arnold said the department had "no choice in this matter," but Green replied with the statement that the anti-trust laws do not permit such prosecutions.

MINE REPLACES SUBMARINE AS BIG DESTROYER

Loss Of Life In Mine-Caused Disasters Goes Above 150

NAZI GESTAPO LAUGH

Claim British Secret Service Duped Into Giving Information

BUCHAREST, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Rumanian government resigned today after a breakdown of trade negotiations in which Germany brought pressure to obtain more oil and foodstuffs from Rumania at a lower cost.

Premier Constantine Argetoianu handed the cabinet's resignation to King Carol, who asked him to attempt to form a new government. Argetoianu formed the cabinet September 21.

Carol was expected to call a meeting of the crown council to consider the crisis and any emergency steps to be taken. Informed persons said that German pressure caused a cabinet split, some members wanting to yield to demands of the Reich while others held out.

(By Associated Press)

The mine has replaced the submarine as the chief destroyer of shipping in the war at sea.

In the week since November 15, mines have sunk or wrecked 14 ships with a total tonnage of 36,268. In the same period, submarines are known to have accounted for only three vessels totaling 5,441 tons. The loss of one ship was laid merely to "enemy action."

The loss of life in the mine-caused disasters tops 150; less than a dozen perished in the three torpedoed boats.

Great Britain is the chief loser with six vessels sunk by mines, including the destroyer Gipsy whose loss was disclosed by the admiralty in London last night. Seven neutral nations—Italy, The Netherlands, Japan, Sweden, Yugoslavia, Lithuania, and Greece—shared the other losses due to mines.

The Gipsy, a 1,335 ton vessel, was disabled by a mine and beached Tuesday. Forty men were dead or missing and 21 were injured.

Two merchant vessels also fell prey to mines yesterday. The 6,660 ton Italian freighter, Fianona, hit a mine off the English coast but remained afloat. The Greek freighter, Elena R., 4,576 tons, sank within an hour after hitting a mine off the south coast of England last night. Twenty-four persons were rescued.

In the counter war, the French government announced a single tor-

BOWERY BUMS ARE THANKFUL

One Hoppy Because He's Lived Long Time Without Much Work

By Tohy Wiant

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The spirit of Thanksgiving seeped down today into the strangest places.

One of them was the Bowery, the dirty downtown thoroughfare where floats human jetsam from all over the world, where a meal of sorts can be bought for 15 cents, where a flophouse sleeping space can be "rented" for a dime.

One Boweryite, who classed himself a "bum by trade and a philosopher on the side," said, "Sure, even us guys got a lot to be thankful for. America has so much to be thankful for this year that we need both Thanksgiving days to get all our thanking done."

He had looked like dozens of other near-derelicts who shuffled along, peering hungrily into hash-house windows, mumbling to passers-by in hope of a few pennies.

But a quarter and a cup of coffee brought out the "philosopher" in him.

"I ain't had a bad life," he said. "I ain't complainin' a bit. I'm thankful for being able to live as long as I have."

He pulled off a dirty checkered cap and pointed to the few white hairs left on his near-bald pate.

"I'm thankful that I've missed only a few meals in my time . . . that I never had to work much . . . that I've seen more country than a lot of rich guys . . . that I know a lot of guys from coast to coast.

"I'm not beefin' because I don't have a lot of dough. I don't need much. Look at some of these guys who have so much money. It runs out of their ears. They're always gettin' into trou-

We hope above all, we can repeat these words of Thanksgiving a year from now—and every year thereafter.

Turned Up Mama

A friend has just told me of a German woman who has come to the United States because she could no longer stomach the Nazi system in Germany. The final straw was this:

One evening this woman was at her sister's home in Berlin. The radio was on and Hitler was delivering one of his squeaky, squawky, hysterical speeches.

"Turn that thing off," said the sister.

A few days later the police came and led the sister away. She had been denounced from above.

But she informed on the sister and on the family were present? Ah, that is the most evil part of the picture. The sister's own son, who is a Nazi, had informed on his own mother.

In the foregoing instance you see an example of the way things are in Germany. Of how Hitler, by shrewd, diabolical molding of the minds of German youths is distorting their mentalities. And it shows another thing, too. It shows the difference in the ways the older and the younger generations in Germany regard Hitler.

"Were my own father guilty of treason against Der Fuehrer," declared a young Nazi recently, "I would shoot him if I were ordered to do so."

The deviltries of the Hitler mind appeal to the undeveloped mind of youth. It is far easier to lead youth into evil paths than into good. And Adolf Hitler we'll knows that. It is horrible to contemplate what that erstwhile German house painter is doing to the plastic minds of Germany's young people. Perhaps this generation of minds Hitler has warped in their youth will have to perish from the face of the earth before the evil Hitler has sown will depart from Germany.

Remindful Of What?

Of what does all that lying propaganda spread abroad and at home by the Nazis remind you? It makes me think of the speeches of a certain stripe of our own politicians. No greater tissue of lies was ever devised than those misrepresentations and misstatements which some of our own politicians commonly put out for us to believe.

But there is one outstanding difference between the lying propaganda of the Nazis and the lying propaganda of our politicians: The Germans hear only one side of any matter, while we in the United States have the opportunity of listening to lies on both sides of a question. And that is really something.

Perhaps our own misleading politicians will become so disgusted with the propaganda lies of the Nazis that they will become ashamed to use such tactics. And perhaps we, the people, will have our eyes so opened by the Nazi campaign of lies that we will demand that our politicians cease trying to twist and distort our thinking and to insult our intelligence with statements which on their face are absurd.

MR. TWITCHELL ON ALCOHOLIC MELONS

Elmer Twitchell, the eminent botanist, amateur gardener, tree surgeon and liquor expert, insists that those experiments being carried on in transfusing the flavor of liquor into watermelons and wines into honeydew melons are old stuff. Our Children

WASHING THE DISHES

Washing the dishes means more than a little [illegible] in the [illegible] where the children are expected to do it. That is one of the first chores that mothers hand over to the children. If the work was properly organized and the child trained for it [illegible] it would never be a bore. I washed the dishes in my [illegible] so I know.

When there are several children engaged in the job they will quarrel over who is to do what, unless that is settled beforehand.

"I've done all the dishes. Now it's up to you! You get the dishcloth and the towels."

"It is not. You're the washer so you wash. You wouldn't let me wash so now do it yourself."

Mother-er-ee!

That won't do. Dishwashing can be a very pleasant chore if the arrangements for it are well made. All dishes are to be scraped and wiped, rinsed under running water if possible. Only those who have plenty of hot water on tap can enjoy that luxury, but everybody has paper and can wipe off the dishes so that no scraps appear in the dish water.

Sort the dishes into pots and pans, silver, glass, dishes. When children are taking over the job, learning how—only one set of the service is to be done by one worker, preferably the dishes. With plenty of clean hot water and soap, a very clean dish cloth, sweet with the fresh-airing and sunning of the day—plenty of freshly ironed towels, this part of the work is a pleasure. As the workers acquire technique the silver, then the glass are added to the job. The pots and pans are still done by the older member of the family because the children will not be able, at the start, to give these utensils the treatment they must have to be kept clean and shining. It is bad to let them think that anything short of perfection of cleanliness and polish will do, so this must wait. The work would be too much for a child otherwise.

Once they take over the cooking utensils be sure that they are supplied with all it takes to do the job well. Cloths, cleaning powders and polishers, soap, towels and lots of hot water, topped off and completely saturated with encouragement. If this chore is regarded as a mean one, pushed off on the submerged members of the family, it will never be done right and the quarreling about it will never cease.

Let the child have a feeling of responsibility for the things he handles. The dishes become the care of one special child who has learned to like them. He will not want anyone else to touch those dishes. The same goes for the cooking utensils.

These are so handsome these days, stoves are so attractive; cooking recipes so interesting, that it is possible to interest the teeners in cooking. Once they begin to cook, the pots and pans they use take on new meaning and they become valued possessions, jealously guarded. "Don't you touch my cookie pan," means that someone understands about the care of cooking utensils. It is at this stage one hands over the pots and pans to the children, not before. Organize the work. Begin with the children when they are getting about, "under foot," and by the time they are in high school dishwashing will be a dignified, worth while, even a jealously guarded, chore.

NEVILLE TIGERS BEAT RAYVILLE HORNETS 27 TO 6

AILING RIVERS FIRST TO SCORE FOR HOME TEAM

Locals Face Surprisingly Stubborn Resistance In First Half

Although faced by stubborn resistance in the first half, the Neville High school Tigers came through with their expected superiority in the last half to defeat the battling Rayville Hornets, 27 to 6, here last night before a small crowd at Brown field.

The Hornets, showing surprising strength, battled the Bengals on even terms throughout most of the first half, but the Tigers scored one touchdown just before the half ended to take a 6 to 0 lead.

But the Tigers took command in the third quarter to score twice and two other touchdowns, one for Rayville and the other for Neville on the first two plays of the last quarter ended the scoring.

It took the ailing Rex Rivers to start the Tigers on the march to victory. Missing from the starting line because of a shoulder injury he was expected to play. Rivers was sent in the game to start the locals off with their first touchdown. Late in the second quarter Rivers returned a punt to the Rayville 38. He failed on a line play and a pass for no gain. Rivers then got away around left end to go to the 40 and made a first down on the Hornets 20. He lost one yard on a right end run but on the next play for the touchdown, barely getting over and being just short of staying out of bounds in the southeast corner. Try for the point failed.

Little Gus Mayer, [illegible] quarterback, led the attack in the third quarter to chalk up the Tigers' touchdowns. Mayer scored the first touchdown on a Hornet fumble in the line after the Bengals had made three first downs pushing the oval from Rayville's 43. A pass Miller to Jake Usery added the point after touchdown.

Late in the [illegible] Miller blocked a Rayville punt and the Bengals recovered on the [illegible] Usery and Mayer made the [illegible] four yards in two [illegible] Miller stepped around right tackle to score again. Usery [illegible] through the line.

Recovered Fumble Stands Out In Football Scoring

Bobbles Have Set Up Many Important Touchdowns This Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Through all the length of a football season which is shortening rapidly, the recovered fumble stands out like a lighthouse on a rocky coast as the one play that has set up more important touchdowns than all the 60-yard forward passes and 20-yard end runs you can mention.

Nebraska, in gaining its second victory over Pitt since 1921, went 23 yards for its first touchdown last Saturday after recovering a fumble. The same play gave Tulane the ball on Columbia's 15 for its second tally. New York university's sloppy handling of the Georgetown kickoff led to the unbeaten Hoyas' first score, and Georgia Tech went 38 yards after an Alabama fumble for the only touchdown of the game.

Recovery of five Indiana bobbles enabled Michigan State to play the Hoosiers on even terms, while Illinois almost broke through against Ohio State by recovering the ball on the Buckeye 7 on the first play after the kickoff. Fumbles and pass interceptions (another vital "break" in many games this fall) led to all three of the Boston college scores against Boston university.

South Carolina snatched a Georgia punt after fumble and went 46 yards to score a touchdown as the Bulldogs before [illegible] were nosed [illegible] 25-7, while an intercepted [illegible] State bobble set the old Setalite of Liberty play gave Auburn one of the three touchdowns with which it downed the Baylor Tigers.

Probably the most fatal fumbling day of the entire season was the afternoon on Saturday, November 4, when an alert band of Illinois players fell on five Michigan fumbles and converted three of them into two touchdowns and a field goal to down the Wolverines.

Taking the wishbone advice [illegible] favor of the drumstick this corner offers a few extra special predictions on various scattered Thanksgiving day activities.

Dear Mr. Adams: [illegible] Washington over Jay Graybeal of Oregon; interpreter Raymond over upsetting Williams and Mary; Syracuse over Maryland; Virginia Military's star backs to [illegible] the edge over Virgie a Tech; Colgate [illegible] over Long Island university.

[illegible] Pitt as the most impressive outfit this observer has seen. We now are waiting for a look at Cornell against Penn Saturday in the expectation that the big Red may supplant even the Green Wave and the Tartans.

People In National Capital Different From Those Elsewhere

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 — (AP)—The national capital is different from other cities.

It has a capitol whose dome glows bright under a battery of klieg lights, whose marble corridors have been trodden by the great of the years and now set tourists a-tremble with a surging thrill of emotion.

It has acres of marble buildings in which work government clerks by the thousands who go home every night to clean, comfortable homes on the hills above the Potomac. It has tree-lined streets and many miles of parks, hundreds of statues to the nation's great, unsmirched by factory smoke.

And it has almost 70,000 persons whose Thanksgiving dinner today was the cheerless words of charity, either public or private. Almost 20,000 more did not have even those. The total, though of somewhat vague and uncertain nature, worries about one of every seven residents of the capital.

Washington is different in other respects, too. Jackson Mac Low Gray, [illegible] has raised for private charities 75 per cent of the amount asked. South Bridge, Mass., got 112 per cent of its goal. Scarsdale, N. Y., has 111 per cent of what it needed. In the biggest city, Chicago, Manager [illegible] to last [illegible] got 78 per cent of its [illegible] goal.

WOULD KEEP LIMIT AT $45,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Senators A[illegible] (Democrat, Colorado) and Tydings (Democrat, Maryland) suggested today that congress retain the $45,000,000,000 federal debt limitation as an emergency brake on government spending.

Both expressed approval of administration discussion of cutting governmental outlays in the next fiscal year by $1,000,000,000, but indicated that they thought savings might go even further.

"We must begin now to approach the day when we spend less than we take in," Tydings said.

Adams proposed as an alternative to increasing the debt limit, that congress vote authorization for additional bonds when it approved appropriations in excess of anticipated revenues.

He pointed out that the present limitation, passed as a part of the Liberty loan act, restricted only the borrowing power of the treasury. Some financial experts have figured that the limit would be reached by next July 1 with only the normal governmental outlay.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete your highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation . . . comfort . . . and swift travel with SAFETY!
